Poetical.

GRAND MOTHER'S SERMON.

The supper is over, the hearth is swept,
And in the wood fires glow;
The children cluster to hear a tale
Of that time so long ago.

When Grandma's hair was golden brown
And the warm blood came and went,
O'er that face that could scarce have been,
Sweeter than now in its rich content.

But that face is wrinkled and care worn now,
And the golden hair is gray—
But the light that shone in the young girl's eyes,
Has never gone away.

And her needles catch the fire's bright light,
As in and out they go—
With the clicking music that grandma loves,
Of that time so long ago.

And the waiting children love it too
For they know the stocking song
Brings many a tale to grandma's heart,
Which they shall hear ere long.

But it brings no tale of olden time
To grandma's heart to-night
Only a refrain quaint and short
Is sung by the needles bright.

Life is a stocking, grandma says,
And yours is just begun,
But I am knitting the toe of mine
And my work is almost done.

With merry hearts we begin to knit,
And the ribbing is almost play,
Some are gay-colored, some are white
And some are ashen grey.

But most are of many a color,
With many a stitch set wrong
And many a row to be sadly ripped
Ere the whole is fair and strong.

But the saddest, yet happiest time,
Is that we court and yet shun
When our Heavenly Father breaks the thread,
And says our work is done.

And the children come to say "good night"
With tears in their bright young eyes,
For in grandma's lap with broken thread
The finished stocking lies. ANON.

THE LOOM OF LIFE.

All day, all night, I can hear the jar
Of the loom of life, and near and far
It thrills with its deep and muffled sound,
As tireless the wheels go always round.

Busily, ceaselessly goes the loom,
In the light day and the midnight's gloom,
The wheels are turning early and late,
And the woof is wound in the warp of Fate.

Click, clack! there's a thread of love woven in;
Click, clack! another of wrong and sin!
What a checkered thing this life will be
When we see it unrolled in eternity!

Time, with a face like mystery,
And hands as busy as hands can be,
Sits at the loom with arms outspread,
To catch in its meshes each glancing thread.

When shall this wonderful web be done?
In a thousand years, perhaps, or one,
Or to-morrow. Who knoweth? Not you or I;
But the wheels turn on and the shuttles fly.

Ah, sad-eyed weavers, the years are slow,
But each one is nearer the end I know;
And some day the last thread shall be woven in—
God grant it be love instead of sin.

Are we spinners of wool in this life-web—say?
Do we furnish the weaver a thread each day?
It were better, then, oh, my friends, to spin
A beautiful thread than a thread of sin!

Select Story.

LANDING A SWORDFISH.

"Now, then, altogether!"

A swing on the peak halyard of a trim smack, and a fourteen-feet sword fish rose in the air and was skillfully lowered into a dray that had been backed up to the pier for its reception.

"That's what I call a roarer," the captain of the vessel said, holding aside the piece of canvass with commendable pride, so that the reporter could catch its points. "Just cast your eye over that sword. See how sharp it is; and then over the body—how the lines round up The whole fish is made for speed—a regular privateer. Fine eating, too. This one goes to the market, and I should judge that it weighed 400 pounds. They make the finest kind of steaks. The meat is white and rich and somewhat like a mackerel; in fact, they belong to the mackerel family, so I'm told. It's great sport catching them, but you get used to it, like everything else. I've been in the business twenty-two years, and have caught some pretty big fish, I can tell you. We nailed this fellow up the Sound, off Montauk, on our way to Martha's Vineyard, and as I had an offer to bring some freight here I brought him in myself. The New England coast is the best place for them, especially around the south of the Cape, and to give you an idea of the importance of the business about 1,500,000 pounds are caught every year, worth about $200,000 in round numbers. In the Mediterranean, around about Italy and Greece, the business is nearly as good."

"How about these stories of their running into ships?"

"I can vouch for one," the captain replied. "In 1860 I found myself in Ceylon, and, wanting to get home, I shipped on the bark Maud, bound for Liverpool. We were browsing along one day off the Bay of Biscay, stunsails and everything jammed on her, and I was leaning on the weather cathead when I felt a kind of a shock—just the kind you feel when a ferryboat strikes a piece of ice, only sharper—and the next minute there was something thrashing about near the cut water that I took to be a whale, but before the skipper got for'ard it was gone. We sounded the well that night, and she had made about six inches of water, and we kept the pumps a going off and on, thinking that we had started a plank. Finally we put into Tynemouth, in the north of England, where the bark was owned, and went into the dry dock. There they found under the bilge about ten inches of the sword of one of these fellows. It had gone through the copper, oak planking, and all, and broken off short. I heard of another case where a ship was struck in the Indian Ocean, and was damaged so that the owners came down on the insurance companies, who tried to get out by saying it was a put up job; but they got Professor Owen, the great English scientific man, into court, and he swore right and left that not only did the swordfish do it, but they were as dangerous as a shot from a cannon. I don't remember the exact words of his testimony, but he said the force of the blow was equal to so many hundred blows from a heavy sledge or a twenty-four pound shot. Anyhow, they got the insurance.

"We most generally use an iron to catch them, though some use a hook, and the Italians use some kind of a lingo when they are out, to coax them up. We have a rest of iron rigged on the jibboom, and the striker stands on this while a man in the foretop sings out to the man at the helm how to follow him. I took a party of young Boston fellows out last year. They hired the whole business, and wanted to do the whole thing themselves. They pitched pennies for the places, and when we left Holmes' Hole one was hanging over the cross-trees, another was at the helm, and another in the seat, lashed in like Farragut at Mobile, and there was no end of sport. We finally sighted a fish off Sandwich, and when we got over it the fellow in the bow let drive and caught it right in the tail, and off he went, the rope whistling over the side and the boys a dancin' around like mad to keep out of it. We generally make the line fast to a barrel and toss it over and let the fish tire himself out; but this didn't suit, so they made it fast to the painter of the dory and launched her, and tumbled in just as the slack came taut. The dory jumped ahead and down they went in a heap, and one of them tumbled clean overboard. We picked him up and filled away after the boat. First they tried to haul the fish in, but this started him in another direction, and the rope got foul with the rowlocks and over she went. They all piled to the wind'ard and managed to keep her up, though she half filled. He towed them for about two miles before he let up at all, and then they commenced to take it, and such hauling and getting hauled you never saw. One minute they would make ten or twelve feet on him, and the next he would make a rush, tearing everything and dragging the dory into the water, so that one had to bail out all the time. Before we got up to them I saw a coat waving, collar down—a signal of distress—and, as they had worked to wind'ard, we sent the dingy after them, and soon had them in tow. They had all the fishing they wanted, and were glad enough to give it up. Their hands were all cut up with the rope, and they were wet through. One said the rope got wound round his leg and nearly broke it, and altogether they had enough to last them over night. It was a big fellow, though, and weighed four hundred pounds."

"Don't they grow larger than that?"

"Bless you, yes," continued the skipper, who was evidently on a favorite topic. "I crossed the Bay of Bengal once, and one evening, it was a dead calm, mind you, we saw some kind of a craft tearing down on us about the size of a ship's cutter with a leg o' mutton sail rigged fore and aft. It came with a terrible rush, the sail a waving to and fro, colored blue like, and in a minute had shot by astern, and we saw it was a swordfish near thirty feet long. If he had ever struck us, good-bye. They call them sailor fish there, and the top fin is about fifteen or sixteen feet high; when they are on the surface it stands out of water just like a sail, and the sword when cut off would be about thirteen feet long and a good lift for a man. The fin is colored a beautiful blue, and as they come rushing along, the sail whistling in the wind, with a wave of foam ahead, I tell you it's a pretty sight. I afterward saw a boat smashed by one. The natives along the coast tackle them, and have a big log fastened to the rope, and then they toss the log over, and get out of the way as fast as they can: and when the fish is all played out they tow him in. The one I saw had about five boats around him. As soon as it was struck it made a rush and went clean through one, and cut at the pieces right and left. The men managed to get away and so did the fish. I saw the boat on the beach afterward, and some of the places had been cut through as slick as if it had been done with a knife."

"Do they catch fish in that way?"

"Yes; I have often seen a swordfish rush into a school of menhaden. They swing the sword right and left, up and down, darting where the fish are the thickest, and you can actually follow them by the trail of blood and halves of fishes. When they have killed enough they sink, and pick up the pieces as they sink. They're great jumpers. I've seen one spring clear ten feet into the air, and thrash around as if crazy, dart off on the surface and turn over, all on account of a little parasite that bores into the skin and drives them almost crazy. In the South seas the people use the bills as swords, fixing some kind of a handle on them, and in some of the larger ones, where the sword is of great length, they are wielded by both hands, and form terrible weapons in the hands of a large man, who could bring down two or three persons at a blow.

"Sawfish and swordfish never seem to get along together," continued the skipper. "I was coming out of Chesapeake bay once, drifting along about five miles to the south'ard of Cape Charles, it being a dead calm, when all at once we saw a great splashing around about thirty yards astern. I went aloft and saw a a sawfish and a swordfish fighting like mad. The sawfish's best chance was to keep in close quarters, and the way he pounded that swordfish was a caution. The saw would swing so fast you couldn't see it, and then the fish would back off as if he was trying to tear the other. The swordfish hacked away at the same time, but the skin of the other was too thick, and so they had it, now out of water and now in, for about ten minutes. All hands were watching in the rigging, but all at once the swordfish made off, leaving the other lashing away as if blind with rage. It wasn't a second hardly before a big fin was seen ten feet off, and like a shot the swordfish had struck the other and jammed his sword clean through him. They both rose in the air with the shock, and then the struggle commenced again. The swordfish was fast and couldn't haul out, and the other was half dead, so right here we took a hand, lowered a boat and harpooned them both, rigged a tackle and got them aboard. The sword had broken the backbone of the other fish, and it was so wedged in that they would both have been gobbled up by the first shark that came along."

Here some one hailed the skipper, with the information that the tide was on the ebb, and we parted company.—New York Sun.

"Dummy Skiddy."

The other evening, round at McGovern's saloon, the boys were putting up an elaborate practical joke on somebody, and they asked old Captain Skiddy, who had just happened in, to take a hand.

"No, gentlemen," said that estimable old citizen, decisively; "you don't catch me taking part in any practical jokes. I went out of that business for good over ten years ago."

"How was that?" asked the group of beer exterminators.

"Well, it was in the winter of 1870, may be 1871. I was living at Davenport, Iowa, and a man came round there giving balloon ascensions. One day it was advertised that the mayor of the town was going up with him. Now the Mayor was a big, fat man, always wore a light suit of clothes and a white hat. This put me in the notion of working off a joke on the people. I got acquainted with the aeronaut, and he agreed to assist in the scheme. We then got an old suit of clothes, and fixed up a dummy which we filled with sand, so that it weighed about two hundred, and would therefore, drop straight and heavy like a man. The day of the ascension there were over thirty thousand people on the ground, and the excitement was very great, as there was a high wind blowing at the time. After the balloon got up about a mile, and may be that far south of the town, they dropped the dummy over."

"Big sensation then, eh?"

"Well, I should say so. But that's just where I lost my grip. While the crowd was shouting and going wild with horror, I just laid down on the ground rolled over, and laughed until I was just sick."

"Should think the crowd would have taken a tumble, too," suggested the audience.

"But just wait. Of course the crowd made a break out of town to scrape up the remains, and I rushed home to get my fishing tackle, for it struck me that the most healthy thing I could do would be to go fishing for a day or two. Before I left the house however I was arrested for murder."

"For murder?"

"Exactly. A lot of boys, accompanied by the sheriff, rushed in and collared me. They claimed that the dummy had fallen on a farmer and driven his skull clear into the heels of his boots. They said that the balloonatic had turned State's evidence, and the chances were I'd be hung by a mob before night."

"That was rough."

"Well, so I thought. I was just scared plum to death, and begged the boys to stand by and protect me. I ponied up $50 for legal expenses, and they hid me in the garret of a neighbor's house. They kept me there ten blessed days, and there wasn't a day but they struck me for a twenty or two for contingencies. One night the whole gang came around full of beer—on my money, mind you—and said that they had concluded, as additional precaution, to hide me in the hollow of an old oak tree about three miles out in the woods. I saw through the whole business then, and drove 'em out with club. It was a good square case of the biter bit, I know, but they never let up calling me "Dummy Skiddy" after that, until they actually ran me out of town, and I had to emigrate to this jumping off place of creation," and the captain shook his head with a disgusted air as he paid for his hot Scotch and walked out.

A Dramatic Scene.

A MURDERER'S SPEECH IN COURT.

A few years ago Henry King was sentenced to serve a life term in prison for murdering a New York city detective. A short time after the shooting of President Garfield, King and another convict named Hamilton got into a quarrel regarding the character of Vice-President Arthur and his fitness to administer the affairs of the nation in the event of President Garfield's death and Arthur's succession to the Presidency. Hamilton made some remark which was not complimentary to Arthur, whereupon King struck his brother convict two blows on the head with an axe, killing him instantly. King was tried on the charge of murder, at the circuit court in session at Plattsburg, N. Y., recently, Judge Landon presiding. Three witnesses were sworn for the prosecution—the prison physician, a cook, and one of the keepers. No evidence was introduced in behalf of the prisoner. The taking of testimony occupied about one hour and a half, when the jury retired. After an absence of about two hours, it returned and requested the judge to explain the legal difference between murder in the first degree and second degree.

Judge Landon was about to reply, when the prisoner arose to his feet and said: "Your honor and gentleman of the jury, this was not a murder in the second degree. It was a deliberate and premeditated murder. I know that I have done wrong, that I ought to confess the truth, and that I ought to be hanged." Here the prisoner's counsel tried in vain to silence him. "No," continued King, "I have done wrong. It is my duty to confess it, and I cannot help doing so. I cannot keep still. I plead guilty to murder in the first degree. It was fifteen minutes from the time I struck the first blow with the axe until I struck him the second time, and all this time I kept thinking I will finish this man. If this is not premeditated murder what is it? I have already killed two men. What is my life to me? The life of either of those two men whom I have killed is worth a dozen of mine."

The prisoner then sat down, whereupon the judge informed the jury, that in view of the prisoner's admission that the murder was premeditated, there was no necessity for any further explanation of the law on his part. The jury thereupon retired, and very soon came back with a verdict of guilty. In reply to the question as to whether he had anything to say why the sentence of death should not be passed upon him, King replied: "Nothing sir; the sentence is a just one. I ought to be hanged." He was sentenced to be hanged at Plattsburg on November 4th next, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and two o'clock in the afternoon. King is said to be a remarkably intelligent man. His appearance in court on Tuesday was certainly impressive, and his deliberate manner when addressing the court and jury made a dramatic scene. The doomed man is thirty-one years of age. He was born in New York city, where a widowed mother resides, and was educated in the Roman Catholic faith.

The Automatic Undershirt.

There is one man who has come to the relief of perishing humanity with what promises to be the most valuable invention of the age. This is Brown's Automatic Undershirt, a garment which, so to speak, changes itself, and automatically modifies its warmth in accordance with the thermometer. The material of which this garment is made is kept a profound secret by the inventor, but it is of such a nature that it expands rapidly with heat and contracts with equal rapidity when exposed to cold. When the atmosphere is at the temperature of zero (Fahrenheit) the "Automatic Undershirt" is thick, compact, and warmer than the warmest flannel. As the temperature rises the fibers of the fabric lengthen, and it becomes more and more porous, until, at the temperature of 85 degrees, it is a mere netting, which admits of a free passage of air and is cooler than any undershirt that has ever yet been devised. Thus the wearer is never tempted to change it on account of changes in the temperature. On a warm spring morning he finds that his undershirt is cool and comfortable, and if a snow storm comes up before night, he still finds himself appropriately clad. The "Automatic Undershirt" thus effectually provides against the dangers inseparable from discarding or retaining flannel undershirts and can hardly fail to save thousands of valuable lives.

There is precisely one objection which the caviller may make to this matchless garment, and that is that it will become uncomfortably long as the warm weather approaches. The inventor has anticipated this objection, and his "Automatic Undershirt" is made in sections, neatly laced together, so that it can be shortened to any extent at any time. To slightly shorten an undershirt is a very different thing from radically changing it, and the fact that Brown's ingenious garment can be shortened at will renders it ideally perfect.

What is the steam engine, or the telegraph, or any other famous invention in comparison with the "Automatic Undershirt?" That inestimable garment will bring peace of mind to millions of men who cannot tell whether to change their flannels or to cling to them. It will lessen our death-rates at least one-half, and Prof. Brown's name will be famous long after Keeley and Gamgee are forgotten.

Choral Inaptitudes.

Rev. E. P. Tenney, the genial and witty president of Colorado College, was at one time the beloved pastor of the Congregational church in a sea-coast town in Massachusetts. To eke out his salary, his people gave him a donation party, among the presents being a fine new dress-coat for the pastor, and a tasty bonnet for his better half. On the following Sunday, as they walked up the aisle in their new habiliments, the choir inadvertently struck out with the voluntary, much to the discomfiture of the sensitive clergyman and his wife, "Who are these in bright array?"

At the same church, a few weeks ago, the funeral of a prominent and highly respected citizen of the town, by the name of Knight, occurred, on which occasion, by a singular contretemps, the choir sang as their first selection the usually fitting hymn, "There will be no night there." The effect the soprano, alto and tenor successively took up the refrain, was well calculated to excite the risibles of those who had gathered in any but a humorous spirit.—Harper's Magazine.

A TRUE CAUSE FOR REGRET.

It makes the heart of every philanthropist sad to see so many worthless patent medicines puffed and advertised for the cure of chronic diseases. Usually the remedy is some vile cathartic compound or alcoholic preparation, combined with turpentine, buchu, or other severe diuretic that affords the invalid only temporary relief, but which has no lasting effect, and in truth eventually brings on a complication of diseases arising from a state of worn out and exhausted digestive and urinary organs that nothing but death can relieve. Invalids should trust more to nature for their recovery. A gentle, medicinal tonic that stimulates enfeebled digestion and strengthens every part of the system by its soothing and refreshing effect on both mind and body, is nature's truest and best assistant. Such a remedy is Brown's Iron Bitters, a medicine surpassing the sale of all other remedies whenever its merits become known, for it acts in such perfect harmony with the laws of life and health, that all pulmonary, urinary and digestive troubles are prevented and permanently cured by its timely use. It contains no alcohol and will not blacken the teeth. Physicians and ministers recommend it.

Wiener-wurst is an article of street sale peculiar to Cincinnati, and its peddlers do most of their business at night. When a cent is handed to the vender, he lifts the lid of his tin box, from which warm steam comes oozing forth; seizes a piece of brown paper and a slice of black or rye bread, daubs on the latter about a tablespoonful of horse radish, and then, with a fork, produces the wiener-wurst—nothing more than a sausage, long and slenderly made, of a reddish, beefy hue. It is piping hot, appetizing, and has a sort of flavor about it that is both strengthening and savory.

He was at breakfast, wrestling with a piece of remarkably tough veal. His wife said to him: "You always say there's something to be thankful for in everything. I fancy you'd be puzzled to find something to be thankful for in that veal." "Not at all," he cheerfully responded, stopping to breathe; "I was just thinking how grateful we should be that we met it when it was young."

An old man with a head as destitute of hair as a watermelon, entered an Austin-avenue drug store, and told the clerk he wanted a bottle of hair restorer. "What kind of hair restorer do you prefer?" "I reckon I'll have to take a bottle of red hair restorer. That was the color it used to be when I was a boy." —Texas Siftings.

A farmer on being asked to write a testimonial for a patent clothes wringer, produced the following: "I bought your clothes wringer and am hugely pleased with it. I bought a jag of wood which proved too green and unfit to burn. I ran the whole load through your wringer, and have used the wood for kindling ever since."

results from imperfect digestion. The causes lie in the torpidity of the liver. A regular habit of body can be secured by taking Simmons Liver Regulator to aid digestion, to stimulate the dull and sluggish liver and rid the system of excessive and poisonous bile. The Regulator corrects acidity of the stomach, cures dyspepsia and permanently creates regularity of the bowels alike free from laxity or costiveness.

The Muncy Luminary says: "It is a remarkable fact that no one has ventured to even question the honesty and integrity of General Bailey." It is above reproach. So? Then where does the "remarkable fact" come in?

General Apathy appears to have entire control of the Democracy, both state and local.—Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin.

General Consternation commands the Republicans, and isn't making much headway against either Noble or Wolfe.

All the state and government officials in the Commonwealth have been assessed by Chairman Cooper and are expected to contribute their quota of lucre at the earliest possible moment. The machine isn't running on reform to any great extent and those who are too good to pay must prepare to step out.

The Huntingdon county Republicans have declared in favor of Wayne MacVeagh for Governor. Don't be in a hurry, gentlemen. If Baily is elected State Treasurer next month, neither MacVeagh nor any other man of his kind will have the ghost of a chance for a nomination. Cameron will name the man—and he will not be one of the MacVeagh stripe.

The French and German guests of the nation have been treated with the greatest courtesy during their stay. A brilliant reception was tendered them in Washington on Monday evening. The Secretary of State and Mrs. Blaine received the distinguished guests, and there were present most of the Senators and other public officials.

Chairman Cooper has issued a red-hot stump speech in the shape of a circular and calls vigorously upon Republicans to toe the mark and save Baily. Only a short time ago Baily was to have a walk-over at the election, but now there is a change. Cooper and the rest of them say that it isn't Wolfe. Why this sudden and despairing wail? It must be Noble.

Some of the organs are pretty badly scared and are now howling that the Democrats are more zealous for Wolfe than for Noble. They don't believe any such thing and are trying to let themselves down easy. Wolfe will poll votes enough to beat Baily without going outside of the Republican party. There are any number of Independents this year—the organs to the contrary notwithstanding.

A man has on exhibition in Boston, what purports to be the flag of the rebel cruiser Alabama, and values it at $10,000. An officer of the ship explodes this story by calling attention to the fact that real flag went down with the vessel and now lies at the bottom of the English Channel. It is probable that there are hundreds of just such frauds masquerading as "relics of the war," in all parts of the country.

There wasn't any fight over the Secretaryship of the Senate after all. Democrats and Republicans peacefully agreed that the Chief Clerk should act as Secretary during the session. Mr. Edmunds and his fellow Senators were evidently averse to the election of George C. Gorham and he is the only man that boss Mahone would hear of. It is not beyond the limits of possibility that Mahone and Davis may yet prove to be expensive investments for the Republicans.

Professor King, the aronaut, and his companion, who made a balloon ascension from Chicago, and who it was feared were lost, have arrived safely at Chippewa Falls, Wis. The balloon descended in the woods, sixty-five miles from that place and the unfortunate men were lost in the woods for five days, suffering greatly from exposure and hunger. There is altogether too much risk in sailing in air ships to render the attempts alluring. The coming down is even more dangerous than the going up, and the chances of starving to death in the woods would seem to be greater than of being dashed to pieces by accident to the balloon. This is not only distressing but inglorious.

Grant is a daily visitor of the President and the result of his many interviews will doubtless be seen in the construction of the new cabinet. If Mr. Arthur intends to have his administration even respectable, he will have as little of the "third term" about it as possible. The country has had all of Grant and his cronies it wants. They are expensive luxuries, for which the people have already paid many times more than they are worth. Grant will not be President again—neither in 1884 nor at any other time, but an administration that favors him and the horde of leeches that fattened on public plunder during his Presidency, will surely receive the execrations of the people and be overthrown at the next election.

On Monday last, ex-Governor Edwin D. Morgan, of New York, was nominated and confirmed as Secretary of the Treasury, to succeed William Windom. Mr. Morgan has been Governor of New York and United States Senator from that State, and has twice declined cabinet positions. He has for years been prominent in politics and been chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Morgan possesses great wealth, estimated as high as $12,000,000. He has always been an advocate of honest money, and it is believed will administer the affairs of the Treasury in such a manner as to inspire confidence in the business community. Since the above was written Mr. Morgan has declined on the ground of advanced age and ill health.

Joseph Harvey, the owner of the Randolph mill in Philadelphia, which was recently destroyed by fire and nine lives lost, has been found criminally responsible by the coroner's jury. It appears that Mr. Harvey had failed to provide fire escapes for the building as required by law, though he had been notified so to do. He gave bail in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance at court to answer the charge of manslaughter. Suits for damages have also been instituted against him by those who were injured at the fire and by the legal representatives of those who were killed. The amount of these claims is very large, and Mr. Harvey will undoubtedly pay roundly for his neglect to comply with the law. There are hundreds of mills in Philadelphia, employing thousands of hands, unprovided with fire escapes, and it is hoped that Mr. Harvey's experience may lead to an instant compliance with the law.

While the East is anxiously waiting for rain to moisten the parched earth and fill the streams, the West is having altogether too much of it. The Mississippi river has been swollen by weeks of rain, and farms lying near the river have been flooded, causing immense damage. At Dubuque, Iowa, the river front is under water and mills and factories are flooded, throwing 1000 employees out of work. The running of trains on the Keokuk & St. Louis railroad has been suspended, the track being under water. Unless the storm soon ceases the losses will be enormous.

THE TREASURERSHIP.

There is every reason to believe that Hon. Orange Noble can be elected Treasurer of the State next month, if the full party vote is polled, and it will be a shame and a disgrace if this is not done. The independent Republican, Charles S. Wolfe, is gaining strength daily, and his vote will be large enough to ensure the defeat of Cameron's candidate. There are thousands of Republicans in the State who have long waited for an opportunity to strike a blow at the machine leaders, and who are earnestly supporting Wolfe in his canvass. The defections from the ranks of the Cameron forces will be very large, and if Democrats rally to the aid of Mr. Noble he can surely be elected. Under these circumstances it is more than ever important that no Democratic voters shall remain at home on the 8th of November next. It is to be hoped that Columbia county will give the Democratic candidate a rousing majority.

THE YORKTOWN CELEBRATION.

The military and naval parade and review by the President, at Yorktown, on Thursday of last week, was grand and elicited applause from the thousands from all parts of the country who were present. The military, numbering about 9500 men, were under command of General Hancock. The States represented were Georgia, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Virginia, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont, Kentucky, Michigan and Connecticut,

The troops under command of General Hancock were reviewed by President Arthur, the Cabinet and foreign guests and other dignitaries from all over the country.

The affair was most creditable to all concerned, and did much to repay the visitors for the many inconveniences and annoyances they were called upon to endure. It is impossible to properly accommodate thousands of people in a hamlet like Yorktown, where there are neither hotels nor large buildings of any kind for the reception of strangers. However, national centennial celebrations of the kind do not occur every day, and those who braved discomfort will have the satisfaction of relating their experiences to their families and friends in the years to come, when time has kindly covered the disagreeable and left only the glory of the day.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

The President on Monday, sent to the Senate, a copy of the instructions sent to Minister Lowell and other American ministers in Europe, in relation to steps to be taken to protect the rights of the United States in the Panama canal. Secretary Blaine calls attention to the treaty of 1846 between the United States and New Grenada, now the United States of Columbia, the thirty-fifth section of which "positively and efficaciously" guarantees the perfect neutrality of the isthmus, and in accordance with which the United States has more than once been called upon to vindicate the neutrality thus guaranteed. The letter continues: If the foreshadowed action of European powers should assume tangible shape, it would be well for you to bring to the notice of Lord Granville, the provisions of the treaty of 1846, and especially of its thirty-fifth article, and to intimate to him that any movement in the sense of supplementing the guarantee contained therein, would necessarily be regarded by this government as an uncalled for interpretation into a field where the local and several interests of the United States of America must be considered before those of any other power save those of the United States of Colombia alone, which has already derived and will continue to derive such eminent advantages from the guarantee of the government. The letter then elucidates the views of the United States government in detail, that no uncertainty shall subsist as to the integrity of our motives or the distinctness of our arms. The importance of this document is obvious, and will beyond doubt, create a flutter in diplomatic circles. The rights of the United States are paramount to all others and will be maintained with firmness.

LIFE AND WORK OF GARFIELD: Embracing an Account of his struggles in Childhood; His Career as a Soldier; His Success as a Statesman; His Elevation to the Presidency; His Dastardly Assassination. By John Clark Ridpath, LL. D. Published by Jones Brothers & Co., Cincinnati, Chicago, Philadelphia, Kansas City.

It is indeed fortunate for the community that an author so well endowed with every qualification for the work has engaged in the preparation of this book. His name is a guarantee of faithful performance. His Garfield is that which occupies the inmost sanctuary of the American heart and appeals to its tenderest sympathies; that teaches the bravest lessons to our youth and the noblest to our manhood; that irradiates from our national glory a brighter halo than ever illumines the memories of kings and potentates, or makes illustrious the conquerors of States. His narrative is the electric chain which transmits the wondrous story of endurance, triumph over obstacles, and final achievement, that will live in the annals of the world as long as virtue is revered and true nobility honored.

This is the book that people of judgment will buy in preference to the hastily prepared campaign "biographies" of Garfield with which the country is flooded; which are crude, unauthoritative, and, in many points, incorrect; without system or regard for questions of fact; mostly anonymous, and altogether worthless to the searcher after truth. In a work like this, the American people want, and they are entitled to have, the best. From all the information we are able to obtain, we are convinced that this "Life and Work of Garfield" will meet their just expectations.

Agents wanted for the Life and Work of

The only complete story of his noble life and tragic death. Fresh, brilliant, reliable. Elegantly printed in English and German; beautifully illustrated; handsomely bound. Fastest selling book ever published. By John C. Ridpath, LL. D.

CAUTION. Do not buy the catchpenny, rehashed, and vamped campaign books with which the country is flooded. They are utterly worthless; an outrage upon the memory of the great dead, and a base fraud on the public. This book is entirely new. The only work worthy the theme. Send 50c. in Stamps for Agent's Outfit.

Every Democrat in the county should go to the polls on the 8th of November, and vote for Orange Noble for State Treasurer.

Two lots, with good house, barn and outbuildings on each, for sale in Bloomsburg. Inquire of WILLIAM KRICKBAUM.
July 29-tf

A man was seen on Main street on Monday carrying a tame gray squirrel on his shoulder. The little nut-cracker did not appear to be alarmed at the approach of strangers.

Brilliant colored forest leaves will be scarce this fall. The dry weather dried up the sap in the foliage before the frost had time to get in its work.

It is both a duty and a privilege to choose proper men for county offices, and every Democrat ought to cast his vote for the men nominated in convention.

The very best kind of paper to write upon is pure linen. Lawyers and business men are invited to call and see our assortment of this paper. We know it will exactly suit them.

At many places, winter apples, which promised an abundant crop early in the season, have been found to be worm-eaten and are falling from the trees in large numbers. Another evil caused by the drought.

F. H. Drake, Esq., Detroit, has recovered from a terrible skin humor, which covered his head, face and hands, by using Cuticura Resolvent internally and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. This is good news.

Bright colored stripes and checks are again in favor, and those who rush after every novelty will at once appear in zebra garbs, showing as many different hues as the ancient costume worn by Joseph himself.

On Monday last two little boys, each aged about eight years, followed a drove of cattle out of town. They were missed, and search made, and they were finally overtaken about two miles this side of Berwick, trudging along in the wake of the drove.

We present our local page in a new dress this week, and are confident our readers will appreciate the improvement. With a new press and new type the paper hereafter will be clean and neat, and can be read with comfort and satisfaction.

There were many Masons from neighboring towns in Bloomsburg last week, to attend the working of the 32d degree Scottish rites. There were eleven initiations into the degree, and the event was an important one to Masons.

An exchange says that soot falling on the carpet from open chimneys or from carelessly handled stovepipes, if covered thickly with salt can be brushed up without damage to the carpet. As the season for putting up stoves has come, the above may be of profit to housekeepers.

Buckwheat flour is now selling at $9 per barrel, the highest price ever known in this county, and it is hard to get at that. At such figures poor people cannot afford to eat it, and will be compelled to confine themselves to the best superfine wheat flour, which can be had for much less. A barn full of buckwheat is a small fortune just now.

In gathering autumn leaves, ferns and other forest treasures, care should be taken not to touch the three-leaved ivy, the leaves of which are in beautiful tints and therefore very attractive; it is poisonous. It will be found clinging to fences and trees and intertwined with clematis, so much sought for, in the bushes and the hedgerows.

The Bloomsburg Columbian, of which Mr. Geo. Elwell, formerly of this place, is the editor, is giving unmistakable signs of prosperity. It is about to move into a new office, and will have a new power press and a water motor. We are glad to note these successful indications in our contemporary, and wish it continued prosperity.—Towanda Journal.

A gentleman of Oswego N. Y., has discovered that horse chestnuts make excellent food for milch cows. He says that cattle eat the nuts eagerly and thrive upon them. We would not advise our farmers to try the experiment unless with an animal of little value. It is not stated how the nuts are fed, but it is probably that they must first be divested of their shells as these are tough and indigestible.

A gentleman in this town, who is somewhat of a sportsman, sent a letter to a friend in Easton not long ago stating that he had a good chance to break in an Irish setter and asking that a red dog of that breed be sent him. A few days after a crate was received at the Central Express office, addressed to the gentleman in question, and containing a small but lively billy-goat. At last accounts, this representative of a red Irish setter was in the express office waiting for his charges to be paid.

NOTING THE EFFECTS.

R. Gibbs, of Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Hearing your Burdock Blood Bitters favorably spoken of, I was induced to watch their effects, and find that in chronic diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, your bitters have been signally marked with success. I have used them myself with best results for torpidity of the liver; and in the case of a friend of mine suffering from dropsy, the effect was marvelous. Price $1, trial size 10 cents.

The Miltonian is a reliable newspaper and what its columns contain is supposed to be based entirely upon truth. The following pretty little story, taken from the last number, may therefore be accepted without hesitation:

On Sunday while Mr. Stroughton Chapin and family were resting on the rear porch of their residence, a huge rat was seen to crawl up a peach tree full of choice fruit, and take from its branches the mellowest it could find. His trips were frequent and were watched with much interest by the owner until the novelty of the thief's exploits wore off, when Mr. Chapin killed the rodent to save his fruit.

Don't put off voting on election day, until a late hour. Put your ballot in the box as early as possible and, if possible, devote the rest of the day to getting your neighbors to the polls.

FOR SALE—A desirable building lot in Bloomsburg, corner of Main and West streets. Price reasonable; terms to suit purchaser. Inquire of Geo. E. Elwell.

M. C. Sloan & Bro., are making some extensive repairs to their carriage shops. When finished, they will be better prepared than ever to do the kind of work that has given them a wide reputation through this section of the State.

It doesn't make any difference how good a Democrat you are—if you fail to vote you are of no service to your party. Principles are well enough in their way, but votes count.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Thomas O. Thompson, Esq., the Mayor's Secretary, who some few days ago, slipped on a banana peel and sprained his knee, writes that St. Jacob's Oil "acted like a charm."

An elegant assortment of finger rings, consisting of Cameos, Lapis Lazuli, Topaz, Pearl, Onyx, Amethyst, Garnet, plain and chased band rings, and 18 carat wedding rings. Also, a full stock of coin silver thimbles. Articles engraved free of charge. All goods warranted at L. Bernhard's Jewelry Store.

The vote for Wolfe will be so large as to ensure the defeat of Baily, the machine candidate, and Orange Noble can be elected, if Democrats do their duty at the polls on election day. If Noble is beaten it will be by careless and neglectful Democrats. Let it be understood.

We have received the initial number of a sixteen-page, weekly paper called The American Register, published by the American Register Co. Washington D. C. It will be devoted to politics, literature, science and news, and the editor announces that "it will be found a true exponent of the constitutional doctrines and principles of the Democratic party." If the contents of the first number are fair samples of what may be expected hereafter, the Register will be a valuable and entertaining journal.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the card of W. H. Jacoby announcing his independent candidacy for Register and Recorder. As a matter of business our columns are open for all matters proper for publication and Mr. Jacoby's card is printed as that of any other citizen would be under like circumstances. While acknowledging Mr. Jacoby's ability and efficiency we nevertheless support the ticket made in convention. It is imperative that the COLUMBIAN, the acknowledged journal of the Democrats of Columbia county, should advocate the claims and urge the election of the regular nominees of the party.

The Opera house was fairly filled last Friday evening, to witness the entertainment given by the Lamont and Canfield pantomine company. The Lamonts are really good acrobats and their feats called forth deserved applause. Canfield is an amusing specialist and gave satisfaction. There is not much to be said of the other members of the troupe, all of whom were possessed of the most feeble accomplishments. The singing was poor and the acting inferior. There was a deal too much of Hogan in the programme and he could be profitably eliminated from the bill. It is marvelous how such a company manages to exist, as it has almost nothing to recommend it to theatre-goers.

Through a misunderstanding, no notice was made in the COLUMBIAN of the death of Hattie L. daughter of Ex-Sheriff Mordecai Millard, which sad event occurred on the 11th inst., at the residence of Mr. John Hoffman in Light Street. She was a very bright, interesting and lovable child, eight years of age, and was the idol of her parents. Her death was sudden and unexpected and brought great grief to the household. Mr. and Mrs. Millard have lost four children and the taking away of their youngest daughter was a terrible affliction. They have the sincere sympathy of their many friends in the county. The funeral services were held on the 13th in Lightstreet, and the remains were brought to this town and interred in the Rosemont Cemetery. Only those who have loved and lost a household darling can appreciate how keenly the parents suffer.

Quite a number of the young people of ou town attended the party given by Miss Hattie Fetterman at her home on Main street on Tuesday evening of last week, the anniversary of her birthday. A very pleasant time was had with games, music, both vocal and instrumental, and dancing. Refreshments were served in the course of the evening. Miss Hattie knows how to entertain, and the young folks are always pleased to receive an invitation to visit her home, as they are sure to have a good time. She received quite a number of handsome presents, the most notable of which were a gold watch and chain, and a very fine set of bronze vases. All the guests enjoyed themselves, and the expression was general that it was one of the finest parties ever given in the town. The breaking up took place at half past eleven o'clock and all departed well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

BIDDLE—BUCKINGHAM.

Thursday, the 27th, was the day appointed for the nuptials of still another of Bloomsburg's fair daughters, and a beautiful day it was. The air was pure and keen, and the sun shone brightly. The ceremony which united J. Commodore Biddle, M. D., of Shenandoah, and Miss Agnes McReynolds Buckingham of Bloomsburg, for life, took place at the Presbyterian church, at half past nine o'clock, where a large number of invited friends attended to witness the contract. The Rev. Dr. Mitchell officiated. The procession was headed by two little girls, Edith Reber and Jennie Barkley, dressed in white and carrying large bouquets. Then came the ushers, J. Harry James, Esq., of Ashland and J. A. Breckons, of Gilberton, Schuylkill county, Dr. Mitchell, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Gertrude Simington, of Danville, dressed in plain and brocaded blue satin, trimmed with tea roses, and Miss Emma C. Bell, of Massachusetts, who wore pink and brocaded satin, trimmed with Spanish lace and wild roses. Both wore veils and carried baskets of flowers. Then came the bridegroom with Mr. O. A. Keim, of Shenandoah, his "best man," and the bride came last, leaning on the arm of her brother, Hugh Buckingham. She wore a dress of plain satin and brocaded overdress, trimmed with white pond lilies, with wreath of orange blossoms and veil. Her beautiful diamond earrings were the gift of the groom.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens for the occasion. Prof. I. W. Niles presided at the organ and furnished sweet music.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the residence of Mrs. Buckingham, where a delightful collation was served to a large number of invited guests. The presents, which were both numerous and handsome, were displayed, but lack of time prevents a mention of them. The bridal party left on the noon train for a tour. The best wishes of the community follow them.

FOR REGISTER AND RECORDER.

At the solicitation of many friends, irrespective of party, throughout the county, and knowing full well of the foul and unjust means employed by certain parties during the summer to bring about my defeat, I have decided to become a candidate for re-election to the office of Register and Recorder, the duties of which office I trust I have performed to the entire satisfaction of the people of the county. Hoping to receive a hearty support at the polls on Tuesday the 8th of November 1881, I remain,

Most Respectfully yours,
WILLIAMSON H. JACOBY.

A HEAVY SWELL.

Jacob H. Bloomer, of Virgille, N. Y., writes: "Your Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured a badly swelled neck and sore throat on my son in forty-eight hours; one application also removed the pain from a very sore toe; my wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the oil, and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured."

Mr. Samuel P. Bitten, a journeyman printer, aged 50 years, died last week in Sunbury. Mr. Bitten was for a long time engaged with the writer of this article in the office of the COLUMBIA DEMOCRAT, at Bloomsburg, whence he enlisted in the army of the Union, where he served his country faithfully until the close of the war, and has since been an itinerant typo in various parts of Pennsylvania. He was a kind hearted, noble-minded, generous fellow, a man to a failing, and and that was a "printer's" weakness.—Tate's Lycoming Chronicle.

ON THIRTY DAYS' TRIAL.

We will send Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belts and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to young men and older persons who are afflicted with nervous debility, lost vitality, etc., guaranteeing speedy relief and complete restoration of vigor and manhood. Also for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Liver and Kidney difficulties, Ruptures and many other diseases. Illustrated pamphlet sent free. Address Voltaic Belt Co., Marshall, Michigan.

A CHANGE.

The firm of Alexander & Woodhouse has undergone a change in persons, but not in name. Lesser Alexander has sold his interest in the tobacco store to his brother, Oscar, and the business will be conducted under the old firm name. Since coming to Bloomsburg, these gentlemen have, by their industry and fair dealing, established a large trade, and it is rapidly increasing. Two wagons are kept constantly on the road. The patrons of the old firm will find in the new the same courtesy and attention. A very large stock of tobacco, cigars, pipes, candies, nuts and fruits is kept constantly on hand, and offered at astonishingly low prices.

HOWORTH'S HIBERNICA.

Howorth's Comedy and Grand Hibernica will appear at the Opera House on Thursday evening, November 3rd, with new scenery, new costumes and new specialty people. Our theatre goers are familiar with the entertainments given by the company, and it is only necessary to state that the manager promises a better show than ever. For many years, the Hibernica has proved a success in this part of the State, and with a company even better than before, there seems to be no reason why it should not give satisfaction this time. Tickets at popular prices—25, 35 and 50 cents—can be obtained at F. D. Dentler's store.

ARRESTED

Isaiah, alias "Business" Beers was arrested yesterday in Berwick by Constable Jacoby who brought him to town in the afternoon and lodged him in jail. At a later hour he was taken to Watsontown, where the offence was committed for which he was arrested. It appears that last summer Beers was in Watsontown and made the acquaintance of a man who had left a watch at the jeweler's for repairs. Beers learned this fact and forged an order for the watch, which was given to him and subsequently sold by him. Officers have been on the search for Beers ever since the occurrence but never succeeded in overhauling him until now. The citizens of Northumberland county are welcome to Beers and if they will keep him for the rest of his life, either in jail or in their county, they will entail a lasting debt of gratitude upon the people of Bloomsburg. He is an irreclaimable rascal, always in mischief and a constant source of annoyance to owners of property and to the police. If Beers remains outside of the town he will earn more thanks than he can hope to receive in any other way. He is a "beat" of the most superlative quality and looks better behind bolts and bars than he does at liberty.

PERSONAL.

W. A. Marr, of Ashland, was in town on Monday.

Mr. A. R. Bacon, of Wilkes-Barre, visited Bloomsburg on Monday.

Mrs. J. H. Lingle, of Bellefonte made a flying visit to her parents in this town, on Friday last.

Misses Annie and Ida Bernhard have returned from their visit to friends in New York city.

Hon. E. J. McHenry went to Yorktown last week, to witness the ceremonies of the anniversary.

Hon. S. P. Wolverton was here on Saturday last.

Irving A. Stearns, a prominent civil engineer, and Henry Crandall, of Wilkes-Barre, were in town last week.

Mr. L. Gross, of the New York store, went to the cities on Monday last to purchase goods.

Dr. W. M. Reber has severed his connection with Dr. Turner in the management of the Sanitarium.

Messrs. George Laycock and C. M. Drinker went shooting on Wednesday last and brought home eight quails and a woodcock. Pretty good luck, that.

Col. T. C. Harkness, and M. B. Crary, Register of Luzerne county, both of Wilkes-Barre, were in town on Thursday and Friday of last week.

Lesser Alexander will go to Wilkes-Barre and engage in business. During his stay here he has made many warm friends, and his visits, should he come back occasionally, will always be welcome ones.

The Montour White Lead, Zinc and Color Works, of Rupert, Pa., have recently increased their facilities and put their mills in first-class working order and secured the services of W. E. B. Davies, of Philadelphia, an experienced practical painter and manufacturer as Superintendent. They have no hesitancy, therefore, to guarantee all the goods equal, if not superior to any in the market. Their motto is "QUALITY THE FIRST CONSIDERATION." They are now manufacturing pure ready-mixed and Pure Tinted Paste Paints from Pure Linseed Oil, White Lead, Zinc and Fine Colors. Car, Bridge, Ship and Roof Paints, Dry, in pure linseed oil and ready-mixed. Pure White Lead, Zinc, Colors, Pure Linseed Oil, Putty, &c., &c.

If you need paints of any kind, send for sample card and price list.

HELEN POTTER.

The Opera House was not so well filled on Wednesday evening as it was hoped it would be. Those who were present enjoyed themselves but were not demonstrative. Of Miss Potter's readings and impersonations, especially that of John B. Gough, it is perhaps only necessary to say that they were fully up to the standard she has long since established. The lapse of years has affected Miss Potter but slightly and her voice is still strong and true. She is undoubtedly the most successful reader and impersonator now upon the stage. Miss Hart, the soprano, has a strong and cultivated voice which is well under control, but is lacking in sweetness and flexibility. Miss Greene is an excellent planiste and played her one solo with taste and skill. She is also one of those rare creatures—a reliable accompanist. Miss Barrett, the cornet soloist, is a pleasing though not brilliant performer, and her selections were heartily applauded. Mr. Macy, the buffo singer, has a full rich voice and gave his numbers with spirit and vigor. As an encore he sang "Simon the Cellarer" with much humor. The violinist, Leopold Lichtenberg, is undoubtedly an artist and perfect master of his instrument. He is quite a young man, and certainly has a great career before him. He plays without effort and draws from the violin the clearest and purest notes the lowest being almost as broad and full as those from a 'cello. He is a delightful performer and the brightest star in the Pleiades. Violin virtuosos predict for him a foremost position in the rank of artists.

Taken as a whole the entertainment given by Miss Potter and her company is eminently satisfactory and they well deserve the reputation they have earned. We trust that this is not the last time the Pleiades may illumine our theatrical sky.

OUR NEW OFFICE.

Our friends will find us hereafter in the new building on Main Street nearly opposite the Court House. This building, erected especially for the accommodation of the printing office, is of brick, three stories high, 25 feet front, and 75 feet in depth. The business office is on the first floor front and is about twenty-five feet square; the compositors' room is on the same floor and is 25 x 40 feet. The press room is in the basement and is 25 x 40 in dimensions. The entire building will be heated by steam and is lighted by gas. The office front has two very large windows containing single panes of heavy plate glass, and glass door. The woodwork inside is of ash and walnut, of a neat design, and the counter and desk are panelled in the same woods. One on side are shelves for lighter stock, such as cards, fancy and staple papers, note and letter, bill heads, envelopes and the like. Under these are numerous drawers, with bronze fixtures, in which are kept various printed blanks, legal and general. On the other side of the room is to be a capacious book case for law publications and volumes for reference. The high desk that fronts the entrance is topped by a wire screen with openings for the transaction of business. The large plate glass is covered by curtains on which is the name of the office. The curtains for the front door contain the sign of Mr. Geo. E. Elwell's law office. The room is lighted by a chandelier of six burners and by side lights from the wall. The room for the compositors is airy, well lighted and amply large for the purposes for which it is intended. Besides the cases for the compositors, job and newspaper, there are cabinets for stock of all kinds. In the room are a Gem paper cutter, a Gordon quarto-medium press, an Alden eighth-medium press, proof press, imposing stones &c. In the basement is a thirty inch Backus water motor which runs the large newspaper press and the smaller ones on the floor above. The newspaper press is a Camp, bell of the latest pattern, provided with springs and capable of making 1500 impressions per hour. There is also a Washington hand press in the basement. The front cellar will contain the boiler for the steam heating apparatus.

The second floor of the building is divided into large and convenient rooms suitable for offices. The third floor is one large room well adapted to the use of societies, or for dancing.

We think we can fairly claim to have as handsome and well appointed a printing office as there is in the State, outside of the large cities. Certainly it is as convenient as could be desired. We shall be pleased to greet our friends and subscribers and show them through the establishment. The building is easy of access, being in the very centre of the business part of the town and on the principal street, and there are no stairs to climb. With increased facilities for job work of all kinds, we are now prepared to furnish anything in the printing line, from a card to a mammoth poster, on short order and in the best style.

A SHARP LETTER.

BLOOMSBURG, PA., Oct. 24th, 1881.

EDITORS OF COLUMBIAN: The Catawissa News Item, under date of October 20th, contains an article pertaining to the bands of the county and the band contest at the Columbia County Fair held at Bloomsburg from October 12th to the 15th. It says: "The Catawissa Silver Cornet Band attended the fair at Bloomsburg on Friday last to compete for the prize offered for the best band in the county. Fuge's Cornet Band, of Buckhorn, the Espy Cornet Band, and the Benton Cornet Band were upon the grounds, but none of them possessed sufficient backbone to meet the Catawissa band in the contest. The boys were jubilant over their easy victory, but would have preferred winning the prize by a contest." It could scarcely be expected that the bands present on the day of the contest would enter, being all young bands. The Catawissa Cornet Band are nearly all old musicians. If there was not sufficient backbone on the fair ground to meet the Catawissa band in the contest, they will find plenty outside; and also an opportunity to win their laurels by a contest as they seem to prefer it to the "easy victory," and hand you the following letter for publication which was forwarded to the Catawissa band about one year ago, as your readers will please notice by the date. To this writing no answar has been received. Should this lead to a contest the big man from Catawissa cannot whisper love in the judges' ears this time, and should judges be chosen they must be musicians, and unlike those of the contest of 1880, who could not tell the correct key to a simple choral. The letter alluded to above is as follows:

"BLOOMSBURG, PA., Oct. 23rd, 1880.

Mr. James Warshaw, leader, and members of Catawissa Silver Cornet Band.

GENTLEMEN: We presume you are not surprised at receiving this communication from the Bloomsburg Cornet Band. For several good reasons, we consider the late band contest at the Columbia fair, a very unfair one. We, the Bloomsburg Cornet Band, do hereby challenge the Catawissa Silver Cornet Band to a friendly contest, all necessary arrangements to be made after the same is accepted. Mr. Charles Smeck stated, while in Bloomsburg, Tuesday evening, October 19th, that the Catawissa Silver Cornet Band could play any piece of band music that the Bloomsburg Cornet Band could play. We also wish you to send us immediately the piece of band music Mr. James Warshaw said the Bloomsburg Cornet Band could not learn to play in six months, on condition that the Catawissa Silver Cornet Band must play the same piece of music, and by the time you are through with the "Bootjacks" you will find that the "Cutlersnipes" are not the only musicians in Columbia county. Hoping to hear from you soon, Remain respectfully,

BLOOMSBURG CORNET BAND.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT CURED.

B. Turner, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "I have been for over a year subject to serious disorder of the kidneys, and often unable to attend to business. I procured your Burdock Blood Bitters, and was cured before half a bottle was used. I intend to continue, as I feel confident that they will entirely cure me." Price $1, trial size 10 cents.

The Danville Intelligencer is indignant because Company F, of that place was not selected to attend the Yorktown celebration, and bases its complaint on the admirable showing made by the Company at the recent encampment. The paper says: "It looks very much as if favoritism ruled in this matter and that our whole State militia is governed by a close corporation." It does look very much that way to everybody, except the favorites of the Adjutant General's department. The recent disorganization of the militia to suit the plans of the officials at Harrisburg has given rise to great dissatisfaction.

BARBED WIRE

are undoubtedly the cheapest and most durable fence made, is not effected by fire, wind or flood, does not cause snow drifts, takes fewer posts and stock cannot push it down. Our wire is four pointed, is made of two strands of number 12 best galvanized steel wire twisted together just enough to allow for contraction and expansion in Summer and Winter, barbs are fastened every seven inches. The use of barbed wire is no longer an experiment, as last year over one hundred thousand miles were put up. We believe our wire to be the best and cheapest now manufactured because it is made of the best steel wire and runs 15 feet to the pound having the greatest strength and visibility with the least weight of any made. Put up on spools of about 100 rods weighing about 100 pounds. Price per pound 11 cents by the spool, less quantities 11½ cents per pound.

BUYERS:

Mr. Isaiah Hagenbuch

having taken charge of our Stove and Tinware Department would be pleased to see his old friends and customers, as well as new ones. His long experience in this branch of trade may be a safe guarantee of a studied and careful selection of the best stoves in the market We have some New Ranges, possessing new and novel features, well worth the attention of buyers. Our stock of House Furnishing Goods is large and we would be pleased to have you call and look them over, whether you wish to buy or not.

TINSMITHING.

It does not seem to be generally understood by some of our trade that we are prepared to do Tinsmithing in all its branches. This we have often noticed by the expressions of surprise of many who, when in the rear of our store, noticed men working in an adjoining building. We carry a full stock of Tin and Tinsmith's Supplies and are prepared at all times to do all kinds of work. As low prices seem to be the most popular we have

This One Foot Rule

may chance to be of service in many homes! It will also serve us if it recalls the rules of OAK HALL, which are:

1st.—We never offer for sale any Clothing but what we believe will give thorough satisfaction to those who wear it.

2d.—We stoutly maintain our custom to always have the largest stock of men's and boys' clothing to show our customers.

3d.—We do not allow our salesmen to mislead customers as to fit or quality or kind of goods.

4th.—We stick to one price alike to everybody, rich and poor.

5th.—We give the guarantee with each sale we make.

6th.—We return the money to anybody who wish it, if they choose to bring back the goods uninjured.

These are the Rules we live by every day, as any one can see.

Oak Hall is still the Largest Clothing House in America.

Hoping to serve you this Fall and Winter,

So-called "Fancy Farmers"

They have tested theories, while others raised crops for markets; they have given a glory to farming it would not otherwise possess. Fancy farmers have changed the wild hog into the Suffolk and Berkshire, the wild cattle of Britain into short horns; the mountain sheep with its lean body and hairy fleece, into the Southdown and Merino. They brought up the milk of cows from pints to gallons. They have lengthened the sirloin of the bullock, enlarged the ham of the hog, given strength to the shoulder of the ox, rendered finer the wool of the sheep, added fleetness to the horse, and made more beautiful every animal that is kept in the service of man. They have improved and hastened the development of all domestic animals till they scarcely resemble the ones they sprang from. Fancy farmers introduced irrigation and under-draining; also grinding and cooking for stock. They have brought guano from Peru and nitrate of soda from Chili. They introduced and domesticated all the plants of foreign origin. They brought the theory of rotation of crops as a natural means of keeping up and increasing the fertility o the soil. They first ground up gypsum and bones, and treated the latter with acid to make the manure of peculiar value. They first analyzed soil as a means of determining what was wanted to increase its fertility. They introduced the most improved methods of raising and distributing water. Fancy farmers or fancy horticulturists have given us all our varieties of fruits, vegetables and flowers. A fancy farmer in Vermont, a few years ago, originated the Early Rose potato, which added millions of dollars to the wealth of the country and proved a most important accession in every part of the world where introduced. Another of these fancy men originated the Wilson strawberry, and another the Concord grape. But it is unnecessary to enumerate; any one who will take the trouble to investigate a little or reflect will readily see and will cheerfully accord the praise that is justly due to men that are called fancy farmers.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Keep One Jersey Cow.

No matter what kind of cows a farmer may select for other purposes, he should keep at least one Jersey cow for supplying the milk for his own family. It need not be an imported animal, one with a long pedigree, or one recorded in the herd book. It need not be of solid color or possessed of fancy points. It is not necessary to trace back its ancestry further than to some good old cow. It is not absolutely necessary that it be of pure blood, as some good Jersey cows give as rich milk and as much of it as cows that are of full blood Unless one is so situated that he can make "gilt-edge" butter and dispose of it near where he lives, it is hardly likely that it will pay to keep a large herd of Jerseys. They are not good "general purpose" cows. Being very small, they are unprofitable for beef. No one can afford to produce Jersey milk and sell it at the price obtained for that not famed for its richness. No one can afford to sell Jersey milk to a butter or cheese factory if the other patrons supply milk obtained from Ayrshire, Devons, short horns or grade cows. But every farmer can afford to keep one Jersey cow for supplying milk for home consumption. In fact he is a gainer by so doing. Jersey milk takes a high rank among the luxuries, and it is one that every person who has a few acres of grass land can enjoy at very little expense. When a Jersey cow is kept to supply a family with milk it should be well fed and cared for. In England they are often kept on lawns that they may have a good supply of rich tender grass and where they will be petted by the different members of the family. If a Jersey cow is liberally fed and carefully tended it will give milk enough to supply the table during ten months of the year Its diet should be varied, as on its native island it is accustomed to have a large number of vegetables as well as grass and grain to eat.

Fall Preparation for Potatoes.

An exchange says that it may be well to state some points in potato culture that are generally accepted by experienced cultivators, as good methods for practice, that can be safely followed. Fall ploughing, eight inches deep, is especially recommended for heavy land with hardpan or clayey subsoil. In the spring the land should be harrowed and then ploughed six inches deep, as early as it is sufficiently dry to be friable. Then if the manure is not too coarse, it should be spread on, and harrowed in. If the manure is very coarse, it should either be spread on before the spring ploughing, or put in the furrow. After harrowing, the land should be furrowed out, the furrows three feet and a half apart and four inches deep. Then drop the seed potatoes cut into pieces with two eyes each, twelve inches apart in the furrow. Then cover it with a plow by turning the furrow back. Harrow the whole surface, regardless of the rows, a week before the potatoes come up, and drag with a smoothing drag just before they break ground.—Tribune and Farmer.

Many hen roosts have become infested with vermin through the hot weather but now they should be put in order for winter. Scrape up the droppings and then sprinkle kerosene over the premises—nests, boxes, roosts and floors. If you want to be as economical about it as possible and don't much mind the time, paint all the places mentioned with kerosene, and the whole inside of the house, and lastly, brush a little among the feathers of each fowl. Don't fear to hurt the fowls, but use it liberally. Saturate the woodwork thoroughly and then you can count on a rest from lice, though they will come again next year.

Castor oil is undoubtedly the best and therefore the cheapest, for iron axles, which should always be wiped clean. A correspondent informs us that his market-wagon would only run twenty miles before requiring to be re greased when lard was used, but with castor oil it ran sixty miles, and it was good for twenty more—a big difference and worth remembering. He further remarks that "a wheel well lubricated will turn one-half easier, and wear as long again, a gain of one hundred and fifty per cent," by the liberal use of oil.

"F. O. B." writes in praise of the sunflower as a productive and valuable crop. It can be grown on poor land and produces a large quantity of seed, which being pressed, yields a clear, sweet oil, while the residue forms a rich, palatable and nutritious food for cattle, horses and poultry. The sunflower can be advantageously grown among potatoes and beans, on dry, sunny land, where shade is a benefit. The ashes of the stalks furnish a valuable alkaline fertilizer for land, and the growing plants are said to be efficacious in warding off malaria.

Many who long suffered from nervous debility would now be in their graves had they not used Brown's Iron Bitters.

Lobster Canning.

The factory opens at one end of the wharf close to the water. Two men bring in the squirming loads on a stretcher and dump the mass into coppers for boing. At intervals the covers are hoisted by ropes and polleys, and dense clouds of steam arise, through which we catch vistas of men, women and children at work. Two men approach the coppers with stretchers and scoop nets, and they throw rapid scoop-fuls done to a scarlet, backward over their shoulders. The scarlet hue is seen in all quarters—on the steaming stretcher, in the great heaps on the tables, in scattered individuals on the floor, in a large pile of shells and refuse seen through the open door, and in an ox cart load of the same refuse, farther off, which is being taken away for use as a fertilizer The boiled lobster is separated on long tables, into his constituent parts. The meat of the the many-jointed tail is thrust out with a punch A functionary called a "cracker" frees that of the claws with a couple of deft cuts with a cleaver, and the connecting arms are passed on to be picked out with a fork by the girls. In another department the meat is placed in the cans. The first girl puts in roughly a suitable selection of the several parts. The next weighs it and adds or subtracts enough to complete the exact amount desired (one or two pounds). The next forces down the contents with a stamp invented especially for the purpose. The next puts in a tin cover with blows of a little hammer. Then a tray is rapidly filled with the cans, and they are carried to the solderers, who seal them tight, except for minute openings in the covers, and put them in another tray, which by means of a pulley tackle is then plunged in bath caldrons, in order that the cans may be boiled till the air is expelled from their contents through the minute openings. Then they are sealed up and are boiled again for several hours, when the process of cooking is complete.

A new celluloid is said to be obtained from well peeled potatoes, which are treated for thirty-six hours with a solution of eight parts of sulphuric acid to 100 parts of water. The mass is dried between blotting paper and then pressed. It is further stated that in France smoking pipes are manufactured out of this new material, which are quite equal in appearance to the meerschaum. By heavy pressure the material acquires such a hardness that billiard balls can be manufactured from it.

Fruit is gold in the morning, silver at noon and lead at night. Look at Adam who got into trouble by eating an apple after Eve.

He came up a little late, stepped in without ringing, and, striding softly into the parlor, dropped into an easy chair with the careless grace of a young man who is accustomed to the program. "By Jove!" he said to the figure sitting in dim obscurity on the sofa. "By Jove! I thought I was never going to see you alone again. Your mother never goes away from the house now a days. Does she, Minnie?" "Well, not amazingly frequently," cheerfully replied the old lady from the sofa. "Minnie's away so much of her time now I have to stay in."

A member of the New Hampshire Legislature denounced a bill that was under discussion as "treacherous as was the stabbing of Cæsar by Judas in the Roman capital."

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

The Great Unfailing SPECIFIC FOR Liver Complaint.

THE SYMPTOMS OF LIVER COMPLAINT are uneasiness and pain in the side, sometimes pain in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism; the Stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; bowels, in general, costive, sometimes alternating with lax; the head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation; considerable loss of memory, with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done; often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the Liver is generally the organ most involved.

REGULATE THE LIVER, AND PREVENT Dyspepsia, Constipation, Jaundice, Bilious Attacks, Chills and Fever, Headache, Colic, Depression of Spirits, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Piles, etc.

Tonic, Alterative and Cathartic!

Simmons Liver Regulator, purely vegetable, is the medicine generally used in the South to arouse the torpid Liver to healthy action.

Acts with extraordinary power and efficacy on the liver and kidneys.

The action of the Regulator is free from nausea or griping. It is most effective in exerting the secretions of the Liver, causing the bile to act as a cathartic. When there is an excess of bile in the Stomach, the Regulator is an active purge; after the removal of the bile it will regulate the bowels and impart vigor and health to the whole system.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM. OF LYNN, MASS.

DISCOVERER OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

The Positive Cure

For all Female Complaints.

This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases a hundred, a permanent cure is effected, as thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.

It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

In fact it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach.

It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of Lozenges, on receipt of price, $1.00, per box, for either. Mrs. PINKHAM freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure Constipation, Biliousness, and Torpidity of the Liver. 25 cents per box.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the sufferer. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.
